

ABSTRACT

A system and method for detecting the presence of a transmitted waveform in a high noise environment. The system and method can detect and classify a modulated waveform without first demodulating the single, and can detect and classify a waveform having a frequency offset without compensating for the frequency offset.

0984788-10191
105107-88278660